

Course Objectives, Programme Outcomes (COs POs)

Department of Sociology

B. P. Chaliha College, Nagarber

Semester	Subject	Course Code	Course Title	Course Objectives	Programme Outcomes
SEM-I	Sociology (Regular)	SOC-RC-1016	Introduction to Sociology	This course is designed to expose the students to introduce students to the discipline of Sociology and its basic concepts. This course help to understand the historical trajectory of the discipline of Sociology.	The course will enable students to comprehend social reality through sociological concepts. The course will assist students for higher studies, competitive examinations and research work.
SEM-II	Sociology (Regular)	SOC-RC-2016	Sociology of India	The objective of this course to understand the trajectory of growth and development of Sociology as an academic discipline in India. This course is designed to understand the prominent institutions which are cardinal to Indian society.	The course will enable students to have an understanding on when, how and in what context Sociology as an academic discipline has emerged in India. The course will enable students to acquire a broad

				This course will help to understand the contribution of Indian sociologists in the development of the discipline.	overview on various issues, concerns and overall social situations of Indian society by looking at diverse concerns of sociologists of India since the time of its inception as an academic discipline.
SEM-III	Sociology (Regular)	SOC-RC-3016	Sociological theories	The course introduces the students to the classical sociological thinkers, whose work has shaped the discipline of Sociology. The course will enable students to acquire a broad overview on various issues, concerns since the time of its inception as an academic discipline.	The course introduces the students to the classical sociological thinkers, whose work has shaped the discipline of Sociology. The course will enable students to acquire a broad overview on various issues, concerns since the time of its inception as an academic discipline.

SEM-IV	Sociology (Regular)	SOC-RC-4016	Methods of Sociological enquiry	This course designs to understand the fundamentals of social statistics and to understand the techniques of data collection, sampling and data analysis.	The course will provide first-hand experience to students in designing and conducting quantitative research. The course will assist students for higher studies, competitive examinations and research work.

SEM V	Sociology (Regular)	SOC-RC-5016	Rural sociology in India	The course aims to provide knowledge on the rural dimension of Indian Society and to interrogate the various dimensions of the dynamics in agrarian social structure of India. This will also explain the institutions which are bringing in transformations in rural India.	The course will help students in gaining comprehensive knowledge and understanding of the dynamics of rural society in India. The course will enable students to describe and explain the basic characteristics of the Rural Society in India. The course will enable students to develop ideas and analyse the progress, transformation and changing nature of rural society in India.
		SOC-RE-5026	Religion and society	This course provides to understand religion from sociological lens and to examine different forms of religion in India and its role in modern society	This course will acquaint students with a sociological understanding of religion. This course will help students to examine different forms of religion in India and its role in modern society.

SEM-VI	Sociology (Regular)	SOC-RE-6016	Urban sociology in India	The course will focus on the significance and scope of urban sociology. The course will give a specific understanding of the urban communities and structures of social organizations through sociological knowledge.	The course will provide the students with the knowledge on the distinctness of the urban dimensions in India. The course will enable students to develop an understanding of the fundamental social reality, social process and change in development perspective of urban communities.
		SOC-RE-6026	Fieldwork and Dissertation	Students are required to undertake field work based on a specific topic in consultation with the respective supervisor and thereby to submit a dissertation for evaluation by an external examiner.
					.

Semester	Subject	Course Code	Course Title	Objective	Expected Learner Outcomes
SEM-I (FYUGP)	Sociology (Minor)	COURSE LEVEL 100- 199	Introductoto sociology	This course is designed to expose the students To understand India as an object of sociological study and knowledge. To understand the existing and evolving discourses and ideologies on Indian society. To understand key concepts and institutions which are useful for understanding of Indian society.	The course will enable students to have an understanding on when, how and in what context Sociology as an academic discipline has emerged in India. The course will enable students to acquire a broad overview on various issues, concerns and overall social situations of Indian society by looking at diverse concerns of sociologists of India since the time of its inception as an academic discipline.
SEM II (FYUGP)	Sociology (Minor)	COURSE LEVEL 200- 299	Understanding society India	To understand India as an object of sociological study and knowledge and to understand the existing and evolving discourses and ideologies on Indian	The course will enable students to have an understanding on when, how and in what context Sociology as an academic discipline has emerged in India.

				society also to understand key concepts and institutions which are useful for understanding of Indian society.	The course will enable students to acquire a broad overview on various issues, concerns and overall social situations of Indian society by looking at diverse concerns of sociologists of India since the time of its inception as an academic discipline.
SEM III (FYUGP)	Sociology (Minor)	Course Level: 300-399	Classical Sociological theory	This course designs to introduce students to the field of Sociology and its basic concepts and to understand the historical trajectory of the discipline of Sociology	The course will enable students to comprehend social reality through sociological concepts. The course will assist students for higher studies, competitive examinations and research work.
SEM IV	Sociology (Minor)	Course Level: 400-499	Sociological Research Methods	This course desig to introduce students to sociological research methods and to acquire some elementary	The course will provide students with skills to conceptualize research problem and carry out their research knowledge of the complexities and philosophical underpinnings of research	work. The course will provide student with some elementary knowledge of the complexities and philosophical underpinnings of research.

SEM V	Sociology (Minor)	Course Level-500-599	Sociological theory	This course designs to enable the students to compare the theories of the classical and contemporary sociology and to generate new ideas and perspectives in context of sociological theorization. To critically apply the concepts in explaining socio-historical change. To enable students to apply classical and contemporary theories to current social issues and phenomena.	The course will acquaint students with the four Important sociological theories: Functionalism Structuralism and Post-Structuralism, Conflict Theory and Critical Theory. The course will help cultivate students' perception of reality and provide them the ability to see things from various sociological perspectives.

SEM- VI	Sociology (Minor)	Course Level: 300-399	Sociology of North East India	This course will help to introduce students to Northeast India and its societies and people and to understand the historical trajectory of Northeast India	The course will enable students to comprehend the social realities of Northeast India through sociological concepts. The course will assist students for higher studies and research work in the area of Northeast India