

Field Study and Manuscript digitalization at Malacha Satra, Nagarbera

Malacha Satra is situated in Malancha village, Nagarbera. In 1580, Bishnu Aata established the Satra with the assist and suggestion of Madhab Dev, a prominent new-Vaishnavik propagator of Assam. On 13th February, 2024, students of the department of Assamese with help of the teachers visited Malacha Satra. Students interacted with local people mostly who provide service to clean and organise religious programmes. Students also found there some manuscript and scanned to preserve further research and as local heritage with the help of local people and departmental teachers.

